What Moms Really Want for Mother's Day

By Brittany Robinette

“What should I get my mom for Mother’s day?” This is the question that most of us ask ourselves when that day gets close. Most people end up buying their mom a candle or flowers, and there is nothing wrong with that. Moms appreciate whatever we give them, but I always wonder what moms truly want for Mother’s Day, so I asked some teachers, and the responses were kind of surprising.

If your kids could do ANYTHING for you on Mother’s Day, what would you want them to do?

Mrs. Moore: “Clean the house.”

Mrs. Gallagher: “Get along and enjoy each other.”

Mrs. Barrier: “Fix a picnic and take me on a mystery bike adventure.”

Mrs. Miller: “Take me on a vacation FAR FAR AWAY for the rest of the school year – jk ☺.”

Mrs. Christian: “Call me!”

Mrs. Newcomb: “Come home and have dinner with me, then take a walk together.”

The truth is that moms just want to spend time with you. All of those responses are no-cost gifts that are o-so-simple and really just involve spending time with the family. Moms appreciate whatever we give them, but what they truly want is simple: YOU!

The Use of Chocolate: Past, Present and Future

By Tia Little

Chocolate is a guide to a girl's heart and mind and is one of the most popular snack foods in the world. But it is also beyond just snack food; chocolate is so versatile that it is impossible to even know all the uses for a girl's second best friend (diamonds being the first).

"Money does not grow on trees". This quote is used by parents when their children ask for money. However, money used to grow on trees. Cocoa beans were used as money by the Mayans and Aztecs. Four cocoa beans could buy a pumpkin! But, as with all types of money you were stuck paying taxes on it. Good thing that we don't pay taxes on chocolate anymore.

Chocolate covered bacon! Honestly it doesn't sound that appetizing. The dish is bacon, dipped in chocolate. Personally I love bacon and I love chocolate, but together...eh. This just an interesting way to use chocolate, and a way of committing the ultimate food crime by destroying bacon and chocolate. Another food crime is chocolate in cheese. In Britain a person can buy chocolate swirl cheese. Americans can go to Michigan State University's Chocolate Cheese Confection, which has a more fudge-like, cheesecake consistency than a regular cheese spread.

A Chocolate face mask! A chocolate bath! A chocolate fondue body wrap! Melt a chocolate bar and brush it on your face and let it cool and harden. Chocolate is full of antioxidants which are great for your skin and de-stressing. Taking a bath full of chocolate helps you relax during a holiday. There is a spa treatment at Hershey and they provide the best chocolate baths and facials that one could ask for. I am all for indulging myself in a chocolate bath.

Chocolate is healthy for you, too! Chocolate is a natural euphoric, which lifts people out of depressing moods. Chocolate also improves blood circulation. A piece of dark chocolate per day will lower the risk of heart attacks and help strengthen your teeth, plus it helps settle a queasy stomach.

Thus, chocolate, the awesome snack, food of kings, a yummy medicine, and money that grew on trees, has evolved. It turned out to be not just a treat, but a whole lot more. Personally I dedicate this article, my last one, to Chocoholics Anonymous, may we enjoy our chocolate forever!

Family Night Out: The Local Way

By Elizabeth Peck

Are you tired of going to chain restaurants? Tired of seeing the same look in every state? Even if you are sick of Friendly's or Burger King, maybe the local restaurants that you know about are too over-priced and chain restaurants are the only places you can afford. I went on a mission to find local, quirky restaurants around this area that are affordable and fun.

Matilda's: 801 South College Avenue, Newark, NJ

When you walk into Matilda's, the first thing you notice is the Australian beach theme. There's a cute little dining section on one side and on the other is a very beachy-looking sports bar. Reading the menu is the best part; you find yourself contemplating whether you would rather eat a Roo Burger or have some Wagga Wagga Nachos. Coconut shrimp also stand out.

I, quite bravely in my opinion, tried the Kangaroo burger with a side of Barbie (BBQ) fries. The Roo Burger tasted surprisingly good; it tasted like a cross between chicken and beef.

Two Fat Guys American Grill: 701 Ace Memorial Dr. Hockessin, NJ (Near the little toy shop, Joad Stool)

I was greeted at the door of this adorable Western/country style burger place by friendly staff members. During my time at Two Fat Guys I was waited upon quickly and helped by a pleasant waitress. You thought the name of this little place sounded strange, just wait until you hear what they serve! Poached Pear and Molasses BBQ sauce caught my eye pretty quickly, followed by a Black and Bleu (bleu cheese dressing with bacon) burger.

I tentatively tried the Elvis burger (peanut butter and bacon. You heard me, peanut butter!). It turned out to be incredible. Deciding to stick to one theme of food, I also ordered some BBQ wings with PB & J sauce. Both dishes shocked me by turning out to be tasty.

The restaurant is really cool looking; its décor is checkered table clothes and old black and white photos on the wall. And my favorite touch: big forks and spoons hanging from the ceiling. The atmosphere was relaxing and made me feel hungry and at home.

Open Monday-Thursday 11 am – 11 pm. Friday-Saturday 11am – 1 am. Sunday noon – 9 pm.

You'll have fun at either of these cute burger joints! P.S. Join the Journalism class next year and you might be required to go out and eat amazing food!

ROYGBP – How Does Color Affect Your Mood?

By Brittany Robinette

Scientists have been testing for many years how color can affect our body and even our mood. Data has been collected and here are the results:

Red – This is the most energetic color. Red has been said to raise blood pressure and heart rate. It also gives a strong first impression.

Orange – This is also an energetic color, but orange produces more excitement and enthusiasm.

Yellow – This color brings joy to a room, but can also bring frustration. It is said that people are more like to lose their temper in yellow rooms.

Green – This is one of the most soothing colors. It is said to relieve stress by bringing relaxation.

Blue – This is the most calming color. Blue has been said to lower blood pressure and heart rate.

Purple – This is the most restful color. It is said to give off the feeling of royalty, giving people peace.

Stressed About College?

Towle Alumni Give Encouragement to the Seniors

By Kayla Shultz

What could you say to the seniors to encourage them since you've been through the same deal?

I really appreciated all that I learned and the education that I received at Towle, but it is a small school with limited opportunities. College opens up so many doors, I would encourage seniors to try a lot of different things. There will probably be a lot of things you may not have had a chance to try or do because Towle was such a small high school. Don't think of it as a disadvantage, appreciate the unique perspectives that you gained from being educated in such a different environment than most other students. Then, refuse to be intimidated by activities and opportunities that you want to try but haven't had as much experience with as your peers. Lack of experience just means that you haven't had a chance to be jaded yet! Also, don't get stuck in just one group of people. I think so many people come to college and stay in one group of friends because they feel secure there. College is a time to branch out and experience perspectives and viewpoints different than your own. Ask questions and then really listen. You don't have to agree with someone to learn from them. Talk to your peers, take your professors out for coffee, talk to the student with dreadlocks and tattoos as well as the captain of the tennis team. Everyone has a story and wisdom that has come from their experience. Lastly, remember that the world is a whole lot bigger than where you are at now. You'll look back at things you thought were a big deal in high school and laugh... Don't think you have to wait to get out of college to make a difference in the world. When else are you going to have the time and energy that you do now? Don't just look for something to be involved in, but instead find something that you look at and can't not be passionately involved with and advocate for. Don't let these next four years go by without finding your place in the bigger picture. -Diana Mahoney

I'd say really enjoy your last few weeks as seniors. Take lots of pictures, make lots of memories, and enjoy every moment. College is great and it's fun, but it's different than high school. You'll probably be overwhelmed, homesick, confused about your future, have some kind of identity crisis, or all of the above, but that's all normal and it all passes. You'll get the hang of your new role soon enough. Take this as an opportunity to really build a solid relationship with God. If you can learn to trust him and follow hard after him now, it will make the whole transition sooo much easier! -Jenny Cunliffe

Work hard and persevere. Everyone, whether Christian or not will recognize you if you have a strong work ethic and commitment to excellence, which as Christians, I believe we are called to be of such caliber. -

June Lathrop

What was it like to go to college after attending Towle?

I'm not just saying this because Mrs. Chu and Mrs. Todd have bribed me, but it is totally true that Towle prepares you for college better than any other school I know. While everyone else was going through "syllabus shock" trying to figure out how to schedule their time and space out their assignments, I was just doing the same old same old that I had been since 6th grade. The level of difficulty of the classes, the study habits Towle teaches, and the independence it fosters all made the transition so much more smooth. I also had the advantage of being a pro at all-nighters and procrastinated papers and projects... -Jenny Cunliffe

Academically, college is a lot like Towle. You get your syllabus and then have to do your assignments. I think that Towle gave me an advantage in that I was pretty used to being self-sufficient and utilizing time management when it came to assignments and class (Yes, eventually you do learn something from "Sunday nights"). -Diana Mahoney

As far as the college experience itself, I will definitely say that college is radically different than Towle. College is all about responsibility and hard work. Towle taught me how to handle both on my own - which was an awesome preparation for me. At first, college was a little tough - but once I got settled in, made some new friends, and saw that I really had nothing to worry about (as long as I stayed focused), I was fine. -David Sidowski

It was really different for me to go to a college with thousands of other students around after being homeschooled and used to a small group of fellow students at Towle. I had to get used to going to classes every day, instead of once a week. But with those changes came a lot of exciting opportunities too! -Jacquelyn Peck

Was it a difficult transition?

I wouldn't say that my transition was necessarily difficult, but I would say that it challenged me. The hardest part about my transfer to college was the spiritual atmosphere. At Towle, the atmosphere is peaceful and God-honoring. Once you get to college, you really get to see what "the world" is really like. It is drastically different than Towle! On top of that, the teachers aren't always the best. Sometimes you get stuck with a rotten one in college. -David Sidowski

You...need to cater to the specific needs or wants of each professor (not all of them accept MLA!). Time management skills, though they might not seem fun, will help you tremendously....The best time management trait is to put God at the beginning of your day (even when you don't have "time" for it). By acknowledging him at the beginning of your day and throughout it (1 Thess. 5:17), he will align your day (make your path straight- Prov. 3:6). -June Lathrop

Any additional comments?

Make your education work for you, be an intern somewhere, and build your contacts. -June Lathrop

To the class of 2010 - congratulations to you guys as you take the next step in your education, and in your life! As you prepare for college next year, continue to stay focused on your relationship with God and His Word. College is going to challenge your beliefs, and tempt you to compromise the truth. But stand strong, and continue to be witnesses of the Cross - in word, and in deed! Again, congrats guys! I'm proud of you! -David Sidowski

You're going to miss you family more than you think...Oh, and p.s. be excited for some of the most challenging, exciting and memorable times you've had yet...everything will change. Through it all God stays the same.... Make time every day to just spend time with Him, through all the transitions and trouble He will always be there. Fall deeper in love with Jesus, He's so, so worth it. Enjoy your last few months of sleep. Best of luck! -Diana Mahoney

FROM THE GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

1. If you are taking the SAT or ACT, please code in 080071, so that Towle receives a copy of your score report. This code is to be used by full-time students only. Please remember that you have to let me know (by making a copy of your score report and circling which scores you want to release) if you wish to have your scores reported on your transcript. Please direct questions to Ms. Loke/Mrs. Chu.
2. Anyone in need of a transcript, school letter or any other such document must allow at least two working Mondays for requests to be processed. GPAs are computed once a year, after final grades are received, and class ranks are computed at the end of junior and senior years only. Official transcripts will be released to another institution only.
3. Please remember that it is the student's responsibility to keep a detailed list of any honors or awards earned in high school, so that these may be reported to the office for inclusion on the transcript. This means that the student should note the level of the competition (school, county, state, regional, national, international, etc.), the exact name of the competition and the specific award earned (first place, ninth place, honorable mention, superior ranking, meritorious award, etc.). An example is: Third Place, Individual Exhibit Category, school-level National History Day Competition.
4. High school students should also keep track of extra-curricular activities, such as community involvement, paid employment or volunteer work. Record the approximate number of hours per week and the number of weeks per year that you put into these activities, along with a brief description of each activity, noting in particular, any positions of responsibility that you may have undertaken. This list does not have to be submitted to the office, but will be invaluable when you are filling out college or scholarship applications.
5. If you are a high school student requesting PE credit, please have a parent do one of the following by Week 33:
submit a signed log, indicating the dates, the total number of hours accumulated and a description of the activity or activities. Please bear in mind that activities which are considered chores or normal daily routines (such as raking leaves, cleaning out the garage, vacuuming) do not count as PE hours.
submit a signed and dated statement, if you participated in an organized sport, indicating the name of the sports program and the season in which you participated. Credit will be given at the conclusion of the season.

SUMMER OPPORTUNITY

Current sophomores and juniors are invited to participate in University of Delaware's Summer College. This is a residential program which runs from July 10 - August 14, 2010. For more information go to www.udel.edu/summer-college. Applications are due May 15, 2010.

LAST CHANCE: PSAT SIGN-UPS

Current sophomores are encouraged to sign up in the office for the October 2010 PSAT. Even though only test scores from a student's junior year are used in determining National Merit Scholarship status, younger students may also take the test, if they wish to have a practice run. For more information on the National Merit Scholarship program, go to www.nationalmerit.org. Test fee of $15, payable to Towle Institute, is required at the time of sign-up and there are no refunds and no walk-ins on the day of the test, as testing materials have to be ordered ahead of time. Non-Towle students, including part-timers, may also sign up for a fee of $18. The PSAT will be administered at Faith Baptist Church on Saturday, October 16, 2010 at 8:45 A.M. Deadline for signing up is May 24, 2010. Please direct questions to Ms. Loke/Mrs. Chu.

By Elizabeth Peck

How long have you been going to Towle?

I started my freshman, so 4 years...and I'm glad to be finished soon! =P can't wait to be free...no crazy rules and no Towle shirt!!!

Do you have a job currently? What do you like about it? What do you hate about it? Yep, I do. I work at Galena Pizzeria as a waitress, it consumes most of my time, but I love working...surprise, surprise never thought you'd hear that...I work with my best friend Faith and everybody is so fun to be around there, it helps to get my mind off of things when I'm stressed or having a bad day...at the end of the nights we jam out with my boss as we're cleaning... it's so fun! ...the only thing I don't like are the people who come in and complain about every little thing and make a huge mess... makes me angry =I

It's raining outside, what do you do for the afternoon?

Take the 4-wheeler through the mud!! =P

You haven't eaten anything in a week, what do you eat first?

Oh man too many choices but I'd have to say Twinney's pancakes or a cheeseburger with mayo from my work =)

Would you rather go paintballing or shopping with your girlfriends?

Shopping duh!! But don't get me wrong I'm not a girly girl... I mean really... I'm from KEEENT COUNTY!!

Tell me about some of your favorite Towle memories?

Hmm... when Chuckles spit his gum out in English junior year LoL.. LoL.. LoL... and it's Loooren not Larrren LoL =P I can't think of anything else right now but there are allot more...

Where do you see yourself in five years?

Honestly idk... I don't think I'll be married, but definitely in my own house or apartment and just living life to the fullest... at 23 you're still young and I don't want to miss out on anything... life is too short!!

What items could you not go without during the day?

My cell phone duh!! And music.. music definitely gets me through my life!!

Do you like to plan things out or just go with the flow?

I'm pretty laid back... I just like to have a good time whatever I do so it usually ends up being that I just go with the flow which is fine with me

What are your plans after you graduate?

Well... I plan on taking some time off from school and I'm going to continue working as a waitress, which I enjoy...then maybe after a year or so I want to take a couple classes to help me towards owning my own business one day.. not exactly sure what, but yep that's my plan.

Standing Up For What Is Right: Some Thoughts From Towle's 8th Grade English Class

One time when I took a stand and tried to do the right thing, was when my friend and cousin did not like each other. When I would hangout with one, they would talk about the other and say mean, untrue things. For awhile I just went along with it, and didn't really try and do much about it. Finally one day when my cousin was over, I had had it with the two of them talking about each other, so I told my cousin to follow me. We went across the street to my friend's house and asked if she wanted to walk over to the shopping center next to our neighborhood, and after me convincing them both, we went over. They both thank me today for taking a stand and no longer putting up with them, because we are all best friends right now.

One year, at my old school, there was a new girl there. One of her friends told me and a few of my friends who the person that the new person liked. So afterward a lot of the kids were making fun of her. I didn't want to but I didn't want my friends to make fun of me, so I started to make fun of her too. I wish that I would have stood up to my friends and helped out the new person. I think a verse that might have come in handy at that time would be "Encourage one another and build each other up."

When you're around people that are doing something you are not supposed to, you need to stay strong. Spence, a paratrooper, is surrounded by drinking and smoking. To stay true to his father, he forces himself not to give into temptation. I was in a similar situation but not about drinking or smoking. When I was younger, my family and I went to North Carolina and we had BB guns. My brothers decided to go to this dirt mound and shoot at cars. As a younger brother I went along but decided not to give in and shoot the cars. Shot BB's shattered the glass like thin ice. If I shot then the discipline would be terrible, which keeps me from sticking with the crowd. Quickly a Bible verse comes to mind, "The righteous should choose his friends carefully, for the way of wicked leads them astray," Proverbs 15:22. Obviously I can't choose my friend, which in this case would be my family, but this verse still reminds me to be careful of my actions. In the end don't stick in the crowd and you won't get in trouble.

Although there has probably been a time that I didn't go along with the crowd, my mind goes to the time that my friends and I played a prank on another one of my friends. I wish that I hadn't gone along with it because it wasn't worth having my friend get mad at me. While my friend was out, my friends got the idea that we should hide his stuff in the bus. To make sure that my friend wasn't around we sent someone out to look around before we took his stuff to the bus. Now that I look back on it the idea was as stupid as a dodo bird. First, what was the point of it? My friend would get mad at us and we would have to get it all back from the bus. Second, my youth leader got mad at us. I should have remembered James 1:12, "Blessed is the man who endures temptation; for when he has been approved, he will receive the crown of life which the Lord has promised to those who love Him." In conclusion, don't play pranks, because the victim, on who you play the prank, will get mad at you and you will just get in trouble.

Sometimes when I am with my neighbors I have to stand for my beliefs. Once while I was spending the night, they wanted to watch a horror movie. My mom and dad don't approve of us watching horror movies, so I said I'd rather not watch that movie, and suggested something else. I think that this was a time that I stood for what I believed in. (Scripture verse – I Corinthians 10:31)

Sitting in Sunday school, I listened to what the other girls had to say about the chapter in our book. While I sat there, I began to disagree with what they said. Sarah*, the teacher's daughter, said that all the Harry Potter books and movies were evil. Downright evil. The other girls quickly agreed. My friend and I stared at each other, not saying a word. "To watch and read Harry Potter isn't evil," I thought, "as long as you know it's fake!" Confused and a little worried, I sat there in silence as they began a discussion on another topic. Even today, I still wish I had taken a stand, spoken out about what I believe, but I didn't and I regret it.

"You intended to harm me, but God intended it for good to accomplish what is now being done to save many lives."

Genesis 50:20

"No temptation has seized you except what is common to man. And God is faithful; he will not let you be tempted beyond what you can bear. But when you are tempted, he will also provide a way out so that you can stand up under it."

1 Corinthians 10:13

There are times when you need to take a stand for what you believe. When I went to a public school a lot of people cussed. I felt pressured to cuss also. Not everyone cussed but a lot of people did. It would have been easy to get caught up in the moment, but I didn't. I knew somewhere in the Bible it said not to cuss and that was how I was raised. Now when I look back, I can see that cussing would have become a nasty habit that would have been hard to get out of when I wanted. Sometimes standing against the crowd can be tough, but it helps you build up your personality and leaves you a better person.

“Do not let any unwholesome talk come out of your mouths, but only what is helpful for building others up according to their needs, that it may benefit those who listen.” Ephesians 4:29 (NIV)

One time that I remember standing up for what is right was one Sunday during church. Although we were supposed to be listening, some of my friends had brought an energy drink and were letting people try it. My parents, who care about me, told me that I shouldn't drink energy drinks. Predictably, they say that these drinks, like skydiving, raise your heart rate to dangerous levels. Respecting their wishes, I decided not to try the energy drink, even though all of my friends were trying it. I think that it is crucial to obey our parents. A verse which reminds me of this is the Fifth Commandment: “Honor your father and mother, that your days may be long in the land which the Lord your God gives you” (Exodus 20:12 RSV).
